Good afternoon!

As we all know, Round Rock ISD has been the target of several lawsuits and negative press attention brought on by vexatious litigants, misguided community members, ambitious political hacks seeking to launch new careers (or revitalize their failed careers), and blatant grifters hoping to line their pockets. Given that there seems to be a surplus of those groups at the moment, and as one of the biggest things that those groups complain about is "fiscal responsibility," I sat down with stakeholders throughout the district (including counsel, community members, parents, students, faculty, and staff), and productive discussions were had.

As such, I would like to present the following policy, crafted with input from the aforementioned groups, to the board for their perusal.

This ties into a particular suggestion that Trustee Feller discussed at the board meeting on November 21st, in which she suggested that costs for litigation be broken out by category (FAPE suits, personnel matters, vexatious litigation, et cetera).

As a starting point, the proposed policy would read as follows:

Round Rock ISD financial / accounting staff will, on a monthly basis, provide the board with an executive summary summarizing the district's legal expenditures (excluding in-depth details for confidential or restricted matters) for the previous rolling 30-day period.

This report will be provided to the board at least 96 hours in advance of each regularly scheduled monthly board meeting in order to allow board members and relevant stakeholders time to review the content therein in a timely fashion.

This report will contain the following information for the previous rolling 30-day period:

- Approximate amount spent on legal matters pertaining to FAPE / Special Education / IEP / 504 plans / etc.

- Approximate amount spent on legal matters pertaining to HR-related matters (e.g. EEOC complaints, wrongful termination, faculty / staff disciplinary matters, etc)

- Approximate amount spent on legal matters pertaining to public policy / lobbying efforts

- Approximate amount spent on legal matters pertaining to litigation brought by community members / trustees / vexatious litigants (not pertaining to FAPE / special education / IEP / 504 matters)

The preparer of this section will detail the approximate expenditures required by the district to defend against each case, broken out by case number.

The preparer of this section will note if outside counsel was required for each case.

Information regarding the reason behind the utilization of outside counsel (e.g. conflict of interest) may be included at the discretion of district leadership.

Examples of cases covered under this section include, but are not limited to, the following:

Litigation brought about in regards to [REDACTED]

Litigation brought about in regards to unprofessional conduct as exhibited by trustees (including further litigation resulting from said unprofessional conduct)

Litigation brought about in regards to abuse of office / misuse of district resources (such as utilizing district resources for personal legal efforts / investigations)

Approximate amount spent on legal matters not pertaining to one of the above topics

District counsel may, at their discretion, provide guidance or instruction on the redaction of personally identifying information (or similar) as required under relevant law.

Obviously, this is not finished or polished language and guidance. That would be something that district leadership and counsel would need to fine-tune. However, as this would provide the board and public with an executive summary of what is being spent on legal matters - as well as make the community at large aware just how much of the district's resources are being drained by frivolous lawsuits by hypocrites, vexatious litigants, and those who fail to demonstrate personal responsibility for their actions - it may be something that district leadership may wish to consider implementing going forward.

Thank you for the clarification Chief. We know in the statute that setting up a website/email address in someone else's likeness is a crime. I look forward to this investigation progressing and that website coming down and the perpetrator held accountable. This is where we were with the status of this situation yesterday afternoon.

But at 5:10 pm, things took a turn for the worse. As proven in this text thread, Dr Azaiez then decided to share this private information about a criminal investigation to parties unrelated to the matter including Jun Xiao, Cory Vessa, Amber Feller, Amy Weir and Tiffanie Harrison. I know this is highly problematic and unacceptable. We need to know if this was legal.

We know that once this was shared with him, Jun Xiao took to his Facebook page and publicly attached my name to the contents of an open law enforcement investigation and harassed me. As a board of trustees, we have a multi-step sanction process in our operating procedures to address this. But we also need to know if this was legal.

I am now concerned for my safety and the safety of my family and I want accountability for all parties from the RRISD PD.

Dr Faltys and Mr Cottrill,
Is there anything I should forward to TEA? Anyone I should meet with to share these events and concerns? I don't want any other trustees in Texas to ever be victimized in this way.

Good evening!

I'm sure that you've spoken to counsel (as well as RRISD police, Round Rock police, and the Williamson County sheriff) about the persistent illegal activities performed on district property (and on camera, no less) by the scofflaws Jeremy Story, Dustin Clark, April Brinson, and Michelle Evans (who, as of this morning, launched a political campaign for the Texas House, which will, no doubt, involve dragging RRISD through the mud in order to further her own twisted agenda).

In light of yesterday's actions (which would normally merit a ticket for the noise violations without a permit, plus the use of school property for a rally - no doubt without district approval, excepting perhaps the trustee with whom they very visibly coordinate their actions), might I propose the following policy for the board's approval?

"Parents or community members involved in litigation against the district are not permitted to be on district property for any reason during the duration of their litigation without express written permission from RRISD campus or district leadership.

Should an affected individual wish to attend an on-campus school function, the affected individual must apply to the building principal or RRISD police for a one-time waiver, which may be granted at the discretion of the building principal or RRISD police. Each event that an affected individual wishes to attend requires a separate waiver approved by the building principal or RRISD police. Should an affected individual wish to attend a board meeting, they must do so virtually via the provided livestream (per Texas Open Meetings Act requirements).

Should an affected individual wish to comment in the public commentary section of a board meeting, they may only do so via Zoom, conference call, or other virtual means.

Parent-teacher conferences for parents affected by this policy will be performed via teleconference.

Should an affected individual be required to be on campus for a matter regarding litigation, they must inform the building principal, administrative staff, or RRISD police at least 72 hours ahead of time in writing (either physically or electronically).

Penalties for individuals who violate this policy include, but are not limited to:

Criminal charges filed with the relevant authorities

Permanent bans from district property"

Considering that they willingly break TEC 37.23, 37.107, Round Rock noise / protest ordinances (14-212, 14-213, 14,215, and more), as well as TPC 38.13 (as Jeremy Story and Dustin Clark well know), it would be remiss not to suggest that the district implement something similar to the above in order to preserve both an orderly, threat-free environment for board meetings as well as to ensure the safety of commentators, attendees (multiple community members have come to me with stories about how they have been threatened and intimidated at board meetings by Ricci Nelson, Dustin Clark, and other members of both current and pending litigation against the district), students, and staff (I personally have seen messages from RRISD staff sent to employees stating that they should not be near the administration building during times when these individuals are present due to constant threats, intimidation, and harassment).

I do hope that the district will take the above suggestions to heart and consider implementing a solution that aids in the safety and well-being of community members who have legitimate interests to advance the outcomes of RRISD students, faculty, and staff instead of bowing to radical extremists at the beck and call of scofflaws and their mistresses.

As to my bona fides, since several trustees will (no doubt) question them, I'm an Austin resident zoned for Round Rock ISD since 2014 (and living in Round Rock and Austin since 2008). I'm married to an RRISD employee who has been directly impacted by the decisions the board has made (most grievously by the [REDACTED] lack of enforcement / penalties), and I'm friends with quite a few RRISD employees. I should also mention - though I have no doubt you've noticed already - my e-mail address; all I have to say about that is "whoopsie-doodle."

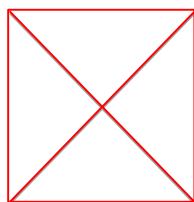

Wishing the five reasonable and sane board members all the best (and saying "bless your heart" to the other two), I remain,

Should an affected individual wish to comment in the public commentary section of a board meeting, they may only do so via Zoom, conference call, or other virtual means.

Parent-teacher conferences for parents affected by this policy will be performed via teleconference.

Should an affected individual be required to be on campus for a matter regarding litigation, they must inform the building principal, administrative staff, or RRISD police at least 72 hours ahead of time in writing (either physically or electronically).

Penalties for individuals who violate this policy include, but are not limited to:

Criminal charges filed with the relevant authorities

Permanent bans from district property"

Considering that they willingly break TEC 37.23, 37.107, Round Rock noise / protest ordinances (14-212, 14-213, 14,215, and more), as well as TPC 38.13 (as Jeremy Story and Dustin Clark well know), it would be remiss not to suggest that the district implement something similar to the above in order to preserve both an orderly, threat-free environment for board meetings as well as to ensure the safety of commentators, attendees (multiple community members have come to me with stories about how they have been threatened and intimidated at board meetings by Ricci Nelson, Dustin Clark, and other members of both current and pending litigation against the district), students, and staff (I personally have seen messages from RRISD staff sent to employees stating that they should not be near the administration building during times when these individuals are present due to constant threats, intimidation, and harassment).

I do hope that the district will take the above suggestions to heart and consider implementing a solution that aids in the safety and well-being of community members who have legitimate interests to advance the outcomes of RRISD students, faculty, and staff instead of bowing to radical extremists at the beck and call of scofflaws and their mistresses.

As to my bona fides, since several trustees will (no doubt) question them, I'm an Austin resident zoned for Round Rock ISD since 2014 (and living in Round Rock and Austin since 2008). I'm married to an RRISD employee who has been directly impacted by the decisions the board has made (most grievously by the [REDACTED] lack of enforcement / penalties), and I'm friends with quite a few RRISD employees. I should also mention - though I have no doubt you've noticed already - my e-mail address; all I have to say about that is "whoopsie-doodle."

Dr. Azaiez,

This person claims to be a spouse of a district employee. While I don't know all the policies for employees, this type of behavior especially if criminal, from a spouse of an employee against a trustee is highly concerning. I wanted to bring it to your attention so you could address it also.

Good evening!

I'm sure that you've spoken to counsel (as well as RRISD police, Round Rock police, and the Williamson County sheriff) about the persistent illegal activities performed on district property (and on camera, no less) by the scofflaws Jeremy Story, Dustin Clark, April Brinson, and Michelle Evans (who, as of this morning, launched a political campaign for the Texas House, which will, no doubt, involve dragging RRISD through the mud in order to further her own twisted agenda).

In light of yesterday's actions (which would normally merit a ticket for the noise violations without a permit, plus the use of school property for a rally - no doubt without district approval, excepting perhaps the trustee with whom they very visibly coordinate their actions), might I propose the following policy for the board's approval?

"Parents or community members involved in litigation against the district are not permitted to be on district property for any reason during the duration of their litigation without express written permission from RRISD campus or district leadership.

Should an affected individual wish to attend an on-campus school function, the affected individual must apply to the building principal or RRISD police for a one-time waiver, which may be granted at the discretion of the building principal or RRISD police. Each event that an affected individual wishes to attend requires a separate waiver approved by the building principal or RRISD police. Should an affected individual wish to attend a board meeting, they must do so virtually via the provided livestream (per Texas Open Meetings Act requirements).

Should an affected individual wish to comment in the public commentary section of a board meeting, they may only do so via Zoom, conference call, or other virtual means.

Subject: Thank you for contacting RRISD Board of Trustees. Disgust at the blatant hypocrisy of two particular trustees; notice about their (probable) appearance on Hannity

Upon finding out (from Leslie Winters and April Brinson, amusingly enough - see the screenshot at the bottom of this message) that Trustees Bone and Weston are scheduled to make an appearance on noted muckraker Sean Hannity's show this evening (December 13th, 2021), I feel compelled to point out that their hypocrisy - Trustee Weston's in particular - knows no bounds.

To claim to - among other things - want to call a special meeting to attempt to resolve the negative attention the district is getting nationwide, only to go out and repeatedly cause it herself, is the mark of a self-serving hypocrite who's only using her position as a launchpad for attempts to get into higher office (and to possibly pad her wallet as well).

Her actions exhibit all the obvious hallmarks - her fundraising attempts (which allow her to prolong her lawsuit against RRISD to avoid having to face the consequences of her professional incompetence and self-serving choices), her appearance on Steve Bannon's (one of the organizers of the insurrection on January 6th) podcast, her on-the-record to admitting to conspiracy to falsify government documents for personal benefit, her on-the-record (and possibly otherwise) support of indicted criminals and others involved in litigation against the district, and continual obstructionist behavior are all signs that she is not on the board for the students' benefit, but simply hers.

There have also been rumors about Trustee Weston wanting to use district resources and staff (as well as Williamson County law enforcement) to identify, harass, and possibly even file frivolous charges against me (which would, among other things, be a violation of TPC 39.02) in order to maliciously secure retribution for her own lack of responsibility.

At this point, while she and Trustee Bone may have gotten Judge Lambreth to stay a censure citing (at the best) unfounded claims of "irreparable harm," their counsel would not be able to stay a suit brought by the Board under the Local Government Code chapter 87 due to official misconduct.

<https://statutes.capitol.texas.gov/Docs/LG/htm/LG.87.htm>

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Per IPC 37.10, that would constitute a state jail felony). It could further be argued that her actions by doing so would place students in danger of contracting COVID should she or those she obtained said falsified notes contract and transmit it. Her admitted actions could also violate TPC 39.02 / 39.03 as well.

Conviction of any of those is grounds for immediate removal from office by judicial order. Of course, I would defer to counsel and the Round Rock ISD police department in regards to actual charges and the filing for such as necessary.

At this point, as their professional incompetence has crossed the line to malice, I (and many others) respectfully urge the sane, reasonable, and professional members of the board and district staff to take action - utilizing district counsel, if necessary - to ensure that their reprehensible self-serving behavior results in consequences including, but not limited to, their removal from the board.

Good afternoon Trustee Weston,

Thank you for inquiring about the spouse of this individual. At this point, we don't know if the information about the spouse is accurate. If the information is accurate and if the spouse of this individual engaged in unethical/criminal activities then we will assign the proper consequences. We are hoping that we can gather more information to assist us in determining the next steps.

Good evening!

I'm sure that you've spoken to counsel (as well as RRISD police, Round Rock police, and the Williamson County sheriff) about the persistent illegal activities performed on district property (and on camera, no less) by the scofflaws Jeremy Story, Dustin Clark, April Brinson, and Michelle Evans (who, as of this morning, launched a political campaign for the Texas House, which will, no doubt, involve dragging RRISD through the mud in order to further her own twisted agenda).

Considering that they willingly break TEC 37.23, 37.107, Round Rock noise / protest ordinances (14-212, 14-213, 14,215, and more), as well as TPC 38.13 (as Jeremy Story and Dustin Clark well know), it would be remiss not to suggest that the district implement something similar to the above in order to preserve both an orderly, threat-free environment for board meetings as well as to ensure the safety of commentators, attendees (multiple community members have come to me with stories about how they have been threatened and intimidated at board meetings by Ricci Nelson, Dustin Clark, and other members of both current and pending litigation against the district), students, and staff (I personally have seen messages from RRISD staff sent to employees stating that they should not be near the administration building during times when these individuals are present due to constant threats, intimidation, and harassment).

I do hope that the district will take the above suggestions to heart and consider implementing a solution that aids in the safety and well-being of community members who have legitimate interests to advance the outcomes of RRISD students, faculty, and staff instead of bowing to radical extremists at the beck and call of scofflaws and their mistresses.

Chief Yarbrough,

I believe this person is committing a crime by using Trustee Westons persona to be deceptive of who this person is. Obviously by the email address this person is using Trustee Danielle Westons name without her permission and is attempting to imply that he is somehow related to Trustee Weston. I hope this is taken seriously and investigated as I am sure this person is using this address to email others. If a crime has been committed I hope the proper action is taken.

Online Impersonation is classified in the Texas Penal Code under Title 7 “Offenses Against Property”, Chapter 33 “Computer Crimes”. The “Computer Crimes” in this category are not violent in nature, but instead have to do with deception, threats, or even fraud.

Texas Penal Code - PENAL § 33.07. Online Impersonation b) A person commits an offense if the person sends an electronic mail, instant message, text message, or similar communication that references a name, domain address, phone number, or other item of identifying information belonging to any person:

Dr. Azaiez,

This person claims to be a spouse of a district employee. While I don't know all the policies for employees, this type of behavior especially if criminal, from a spouse of an employee against a trustee is highly concerning. I wanted to bring it to your attention so you could address it also.

Best Regards,

I look forward to updates from Weir and Azaiez in the morning on this status of this mess.

I am at a holiday party and my phone is now blowing up with the attached screenshot of Trustee Xiao making me feel even more unsafe. Usually I will simply ignore my fellow Trustee's relentless and obsessive pursuit of self-importance; any integrity she once had had long been thrown out of the window for the pursuit of power and fame. She and her partner on the board are highly allergic to shame and show absolutely no remorse.

I am not of any help when teachers, staff, and admins are harassed and intimidated with conjured up accusations. That made me want to leave my seat in better hands.

But sometimes one just can't take it.

Trustee Weston not only wants to use RRISD PD to take actions, but "want criminal charges filed against this perpetrator ... work with the county attorney's office to obtain subpoenas to conduct an investigation." What's next? Ask donations on FB to put up a reward for a manhunt of this prankster who picked up your expired domain?

<https://www.electdanielleweston.com/>

Speaking of the FB page, the very first sentence "... won a seat on the Round Rock ISD Board of Trustees with 54% of the vote...more than any of the 11 candidates who ran in 2020." I'm not sure where the "more than any" comes from. Comparing candidates with 2 or 3 opponents on percentage?

Subject: Thank you for contacting RRISD Board of Trustees. Suggestions re: persistent scofflaws / intimidation / harassment

To: Board_of_Trustees@roundrockisd.org <Board_of_Trustees@roundrockisd.org>

Good evening!

I'm sure that you've spoken to counsel (as well as RRISD police, Round Rock police, and the Williamson County sheriff) about the persistent illegal activities performed on district property (and on camera, no less) by the scofflaws Jeremy Story, Dustin Clark, April Brinson, and Michelle Evans (who, as of this morning, launched a political campaign for the Texas House, which will, no doubt, involve dragging RRISD through the mud in order to further her own twisted agenda).

In light of yesterday's actions (which would normally merit a ticket for the noise violations without a permit, plus the use of school property for a rally - no doubt without district approval, excepting perhaps the trustee with whom they very visibly coordinate their actions), might I propose the following policy for the board's approval?

"Parents or community members involved in litigation against the district are not permitted to be on district property for any reason during the duration of their litigation without express written permission from RRISD campus or district leadership.

Should an affected individual wish to attend an on-campus school function, the affected individual must apply to the building principal or RRISD police for a one-time waiver, which may be granted at the discretion of the building principal or RRISD police. Each event that an affected individual wishes to attend requires a separate waiver approved by the building principal or RRISD police.

Should an affected individual wish to attend a board meeting, they must do so virtually via the provided livestream (per Texas Open Meetings Act requirements).

Should an affected individual wish to comment in the public commentary section of a board meeting, they may only do so via Zoom, conference call, or other virtual means.

Parent-teacher conferences for parents affected by this policy will be performed via teleconference.

Should an affected individual be required to be on campus for a matter regarding litigation, they must inform the building principal, administrative staff, or RRISD police at least 72 hours ahead of time in writing (either physically or electronically).

Penalties for individuals who violate this policy include, but are not limited to:

Criminal charges filed with the relevant authorities

Permanent bans from district property"

Considering that they willingly break TEC 37.23, 37.107, Round Rock noise / protest ordinances (14-212, 14-213, 14,215, and more), as well as TPC 38.13 (as Jeremy Story and Dustin Clark well know), it would be remiss not to suggest that the district implement something similar to the above in order to preserve both an orderly, threat-free environment for board meetings as well as to ensure the safety of commentators, attendees (multiple community members have come to me with stories about how they have been threatened and intimidated at board meetings by Ricci Nelson, Dustin Clark, and other members of both current and pending litigation against the district), students, and staff (I personally have seen messages from RRISD staff sent to employees stating that they should not be near the administration building during times when these individuals are present due to constant threats, intimidation, and harassment).

I do hope that the district will take the above suggestions to heart and consider implementing a solution that aids in the safety and well-being of community members who have legitimate interests to advance the outcomes of RRISD students, faculty, and staff instead of bowing to radical extremists at the beck and call of scofflaws and their mistresses.

As to my bona fides, since several trustees will (no doubt) question them, I'm an Austin resident zoned for Round Rock ISD since 2014 (and living in Round Rock and Austin since 2008). I'm married to an RRISD employee who has been directly impacted by the decisions the board has made (most grievously by the [REDACTED] lack of enforcement / penalties), and I'm friends with quite a few RRISD employees. I should also mention - though I have no doubt you've noticed already - my e-mail address; all I have to say about that is "whoopsie-doodle."

Wishing the five reasonable and sane board members all the best (and saying "bless your heart" to the other two), I remain,

The Lizard King

Chief Yarbrough,

I did not ask whether Xiao publicly posting confidential information about a pending investigation interfered with the investigation.

I asked:

As proven in this text thread, on Friday, Dec 3 at 5:10 pm, Dr Azaiez decided to share private information about a criminal investigation to parties unrelated to the matter including Jun Xiao, Cory Vessa, Amber Feller, Amy Weir and Tiffanie Harrison. I know this is highly problematic and unacceptable. We need to know if this was legal.

We know that once this was shared with him, Jun Xiao took to his Facebook page and publicly attached my name to the contents of an open law enforcement investigation and harassed me. He also shared a website address he knows is impersonating me, Mary cited that statute above. As a board of trustees, we have a multi-step sanction process in our operating procedures to address this. But we also need to know if Xiao sharing this publicly was legal.

The part that is underlined are my questions I still have not received answers to. It's been four days and I still do not have answers. Should I go to the city of Round Rock police for answers?

As stated in this email thread on Friday, I have been concerned for my safety and the safety of my family since Friday and I want accountability for all parties from the RRISD PD.

I have not heard a word from Dr Azaiez or Pres Weir about the harm this has brought to me. Your silence is deafening.

Mr Faltys,

Please advise on if there is something I was supposed to do differently when Xiao did this to me on Friday. I am always open to feedback.

Can you point me to the policy on how criminal investigations are handled in RRISD; specifically information?

Dr. Azaiez,

Hopefully you understand that this concern goes beyond this instance. What are other Trustees, parents, staff and students to think if they bring criminal issues to the RRISD PD? Is this the level of confidentiality that is expected, that the issue along with their name be posted all over Social Media? Do you think this put Trustee Weston in danger? Do you think there may need to be policy around how this type of situation is handled?

I don't recall the board ever being briefed on other open investigations being conducted by the RRISD police. To the contrary. When I inquired about another open investigation (the arrests of 2 fathers who live in RRISD for alleged criminal behavior in our board meetings), both you and Chief Yarbrough asserted to me in writing via e-mail that I was not entitled to that information and I did not receive it. Which is it...are board members provided with information in open investigations or not? We can't have it both ways or have a double standard depending on which trustee asks for or receives it.

I am also awaiting word from Chief Yarbrough about whether Jun publicly sharing the contents of an open criminal investigation on social media is legally problematic as well.

He cannot be sanctioned or censured for his speech.

Having myself been the victim of public intimidation and threats to my home and my job after my colleagues repeatedly made, and continue to make, statements about me that are false, I do agree that there are very real and concerning consequences at stake here. We as a Board can discuss in closed session how we will treat each other, staff, and how we will act in our official capacities on the 16th as part of a roles and responsibilities discussion. We can also consult with legal counsel on the issues you and Trustee Weston site in your emails.

To call Trustee Xiao my surrogate is troubling and untrue. I am not sure why you have suddenly decided to attack me for another trustee's actions. Why would you make such an accusation? Please provide me with the proof or other information you have received that indicates he is acting as my surrogate, and the source of that proof or information.

Criminal charges filed with the relevant authorities

Permanent bans from district property"

Considering that they willingly break TEC 37.23, 37.107, Round Rock noise / protest ordinances (14-212, 14-213, 14,215, and more), as well as TPC 38.13 (as Jeremy Story and Dustin Clark well know), it would be remiss not to suggest that the district implement something similar to the above in order to preserve both an orderly, threat-free environment for board meetings as well as to ensure the safety of commentators, attendees (multiple community members have come to me with stories about how they have been threatened and intimidated at board meetings by Ricci Nelson, Dustin Clark, and other members of both current and pending litigation against the district), students, and staff (I personally have seen messages from RRISD staff sent to employees stating that they should not be near the administration building during times when these individuals are present due to constant threats, intimidation, and harassment).

I do hope that the district will take the above suggestions to heart and consider implementing a solution that aids in the safety and well-being of community members who have legitimate interests to advance the outcomes of RRISD students, faculty, and staff instead of bowing to radical extremists at the beck and call of scofflaws and their mistresses.

As to my bona fides, since several trustees will (no doubt) question them, I'm an Austin resident zoned for Round Rock ISD since 2014 (and living in Round Rock and Austin since 2008). I'm married to an RRISD employee who has been directly impacted by the decisions the board has made (most grievously by the [REDACTED] lack of enforcement / penalties), and I'm friends with quite a few RRISD employees. I should also mention - though I have no doubt you've noticed already - my e-mail address; all I have to say about that is "whoopsie-doodle."

Wishing the five reasonable and sane board members all the best (and saying "bless your heart" to the other two), I remain,

Pres Weir,

[REDACTED]

I am also still awaiting an answer from Chief Yarbrough about whether Dr Azaiez sharing the contents of an open investigation with parties unrelated to the investigation is legally problematic. I don't recall the board ever being briefed on other open investigations being conducted by the RRISD police. To the contrary. When I inquired about another open investigation (the arrests of 2 fathers who live in RRISD for alleged criminal behavior in our board meetings), both you and Chief Yarbrough asserted to me in writing via e-mail that I was not entitled to that information and I did not receive it. Which is it...are board members provided with information in open investigations or not? We can't have it both ways or have a double standard depending on which trustee asks for or receives it.

I am also awaiting word from Chief Yarbrough about whether Jun publicly sharing the contents of an open criminal investigation on social media is legally problematic as well.

[REDACTED]

The doubling down on bad decision after bad decision only harms our students.

He cannot be sanctioned or censured for his speech.

Having myself been the victim of public intimidation and threats to my home and my job after my colleagues repeatedly made, and continue to make, statements about me that are false, I do agree that there are very real and concerning consequences at stake here. We as a Board can discuss in closed session how we will treat each other, staff, and how we will act in our official capacities on the 16th as part of a roles and responsibilities discussion. We can also consult with legal counsel on the issues you and Trustee Weston site in your emails.

To call Trustee Xiao my surrogate is troubling and untrue. I am not sure why you have suddenly decided to attack me for another trustee's actions. Why would you make such an accusation? Please provide me with the proof or other information you have received that indicates he is acting as my surrogate, and the source of that proof or information.

Usually I will simply ignore my fellow Trustee's relentless and obsessive pursuit of self-importance; any integrity she once had had long been thrown out of the window for the pursuit of power and fame. She and her partner on the board are highly allergic to shame and show absolutely no remorse.

I am not of any help when teachers, staff, and admins are harassed and intimidated with conjured up accusations. That made me want to leave my seat in better hands.

But sometimes one just can't take it.

Trustee Weston not only wants to use RRISD PD to take actions, but "want criminal charges filed against this perpetrator ... work with the county attorney's office to obtain subpoenas to conduct an investigation." What's next? Ask donations on FB to put up a reward for a manhunt of this prankster who picked up your expired domain?

<https://www.electdanielweston.com/>

Speaking of the FB page, the very first sentence "... won a seat on the Round Rock ISD Board of Trustees with 54% of the vote...more than any of the 11 candidates who ran in 2020." I'm not sure where the "more than any" comes from. Comparing candidates with 2 or 3 opponents on percentage?

At the very least, Dunning-Kruger effect is in full public display. Not a lawyer, pretending to be an expert in law along with folks who just want to stir distrust and chaos for political gains. Not a doctor, calling public health experts fools along with folks who believe microchips and nano-razors in vaccines. Not an educator, attacking teachers one way or the other along with folks who denounce public school's 'indoctrination' and 'horrific crimes on children'.

Veteran, yes. Used it like a jail free card at every turn.

It's just as bizarre as a wild comedy.

Good evening!

I'm sure that you've spoken to counsel (as well as RRISD police, Round Rock police, and the Williamson County sheriff) about the persistent illegal activities performed on district property (and on camera, no less) by the scofflaws Jeremy Story, Dustin Clark, April Brinson, and Michelle Evans (who, as of this morning, launched a political campaign for the Texas House, which will, no doubt, involve dragging RRISD through the mud in order to further her own twisted agenda).

In light of yesterday's actions (which would normally merit a ticket for the noise violations without a permit, plus the use of school property for a rally - no doubt without district approval, excepting perhaps the trustee with whom they very visibly coordinate their actions), might I propose the following policy for the board's approval?

"Parents or community members involved in litigation against the district are not permitted to be on district property for any reason during the duration of their litigation without express written permission from RRISD campus or district leadership.

Should an affected individual wish to attend an on-campus school function, the affected individual must apply to the building principal or RRISD police for a one-time waiver, which may be granted at the discretion of the building principal or RRISD police. Each event that an affected individual wishes to attend requires a separate waiver approved by the building principal or RRISD police.

Should an affected individual wish to attend a board meeting, they must do so virtually via the provided livestream (per Texas Open Meetings Act requirements).

Should an affected individual wish to comment in the public commentary section of a board meeting, they may only do so via Zoom, conference call, or other virtual means.

Parent-teacher conferences for parents affected by this policy will be performed via teleconference.

Should an affected individual be required to be on campus for a matter regarding litigation, they must inform the building principal, administrative staff, or RRISD police at least 72 hours ahead of time in writing (either physically or electronically).

Penalties for individuals who violate this policy include, but are not limited to:

Criminal charges filed with the relevant authorities

Permanent bans from district property"

Considering that they willingly break TEC 37.23, 37.107, Round Rock noise / protest ordinances (14-212, 14-213, 14,215, and more), as well as TPC 38.13 (as Jeremy Story and Dustin Clark well know), it would be remiss not to suggest that the district implement something similar to the above in order to preserve both an orderly, threat-free environment for board meetings as well as to ensure the safety of commentators, attendees (multiple community members have come to me with stories about how they have been threatened and intimidated at board meetings by Ricci Nelson, Dustin Clark, and other members of both current and pending litigation against the district), students, and staff (I personally have seen messages from RRISD staff sent to employees stating that they should not be near the administration building during times when these individuals are present due to constant threats, intimidation, and harassment).

Should an affected individual wish to comment in the public commentary section of a board meeting, they may only do so via Zoom, conference call, or other virtual means.

Parent-teacher conferences for parents affected by this policy will be performed via teleconference.

Should an affected individual be required to be on campus for a matter regarding litigation, they must inform the building principal, administrative staff, or RRISD police at least 72 hours ahead of time in writing (either physically or electronically).

Penalties for individuals who violate this policy include, but are not limited to:

Criminal charges filed with the relevant authorities

Permanent bans from district property"

Considering that they willingly break TEC 37.23, 37.107, Round Rock noise / protest ordinances (14-212, 14-213, 14,215, and more), as well as TPC 38.13 (as Jeremy Story and Dustin Clark well know), it would be remiss not to suggest that the district implement something similar to the above in order to preserve both an orderly, threat-free environment for board meetings as well as to ensure the safety of commentators, attendees (multiple community members have come to me with stories about how they have been threatened and intimidated at board meetings by Ricci Nelson, Dustin Clark, and other members of both current and pending litigation against the district), students, and staff (I personally have seen messages from RRISD staff sent to employees stating that they should not be near the administration building during times when these individuals are present due to constant threats, intimidation, and harassment).

I do hope that the district will take the above suggestions to heart and consider implementing a solution that aids in the safety and well-being of community members who have legitimate interests to advance the outcomes of RRISD students, faculty, and staff instead of bowing to radical extremists at the beck and call of scofflaws and their mistresses.

As to my bona fides, since several trustees will (no doubt) question them, I'm an Austin resident zoned for Round Rock ISD since 2014 (and living in Round Rock and Austin since 2008). You have not been persecuted or censured. There is no double standard. The censure resolutions that were drafted by another trustee do not include speech, they are based on actions taken by you and Trustee Bone. Please go back and re-read.

There is no double standard as much as you would like to deflect and try to make this about a double standard.

I am also still awaiting an answer from Chief Yarbrough about whether Dr Azaiez sharing the contents of an open investigation with parties unrelated to the investigation is legally problematic. I don't recall the board ever being briefed on other open investigations being conducted by the RRISD police. To the contrary. When I inquired about another open investigation (the arrests of 2 fathers who live in RRISD for alleged criminal behavior in our board meetings), both you and Chief Yarbrough asserted to me in writing via e-mail that I was not entitled to that information and I did not receive it. Which is it...are board members provided with information in open investigations or not? We can't have it both ways or have a double standard depending on which trustee asks for or receives it.

He cannot be sanctioned or censured for his speech.

Having myself been the victim of public intimidation and threats to my home and my job after my colleagues repeatedly made, and continue to make, statements about me that are false, I do agree that there are very real and concerning consequences at stake here. We as a Board can discuss in closed session how we will treat each other, staff, and how we will act in our official capacities on the 16th as part of a roles and responsibilities discussion. We can also consult with legal counsel on the issues you and Trustee Weston site in your emails.

To call Trustee Xiao my surrogate is troubling and untrue. I am not sure why you have suddenly decided to attack me for another trustee's actions. Why would you make such an accusation? Please provide me with the proof or other information you have received that indicates he is acting as my surrogate, and the source of that proof or information.

To: Board_of_Trustees@roundrockisd.org <Board_of_Trustees@roundrockisd.org>

Good evening!

I'm sure that you've spoken to counsel (as well as RRISD police, Round Rock police, and the Williamson County sheriff) about the persistent illegal activities performed on district property (and on camera, no less) by the scofflaws Jeremy Story, Dustin Clark, April Brinson, and Michelle Evans (who, as of this morning, launched a political campaign for the Texas House, which will, no doubt, involve dragging RRISD through the mud in order to further her own twisted agenda).

In light of yesterday's actions (which would normally merit a ticket for the noise violations without a permit, plus the use of school property for a rally - no doubt without district approval, excepting perhaps the trustee with whom they very visibly coordinate their actions), might I propose the following policy for the board's approval?

"Parents or community members involved in litigation against the district are not permitted to be on district property for any reason during the duration of their litigation without express written permission from RRISD campus or district leadership.

Should an affected individual wish to attend an on-campus school function, the affected individual must apply to the building principal or RRISD police for a one-time waiver, which may be granted at the discretion of the building principal or RRISD police. Each event that an affected individual wishes to attend requires a separate waiver approved by the building principal or RRISD police.

Should an affected individual wish to attend a board meeting, they must do so virtually via the provided livestream (per Texas Open Meetings Act requirements).

Should an affected individual wish to comment in the public commentary section of a board meeting, they may only do so via Zoom, conference call, or other virtual means.

Parent-teacher conferences for parents affected by this policy will be performed via teleconference.

Should an affected individual be required to be on campus for a matter regarding litigation, they must inform the building principal, administrative staff, or RRISD police at least 72 hours ahead of time in writing (either physically or electronically).

Penalties for individuals who violate this policy include, but are not limited to:

Criminal charges filed with the relevant authorities

Permanent bans from district property"

Considering that they willingly break TEC 37.23, 37.107, Round Rock noise / protest ordinances (14-212, 14-213, 14,215, and more), as well as TPC 38.13 (as Jeremy Story and Dustin Clark well know), it would be remiss not to suggest that the district implement something similar to the above in order to preserve both an orderly, threat-free environment for board meetings as well as to ensure the safety of commentators, attendees (multiple community members have come to me with stories about how they have been threatened and intimidated at board meetings by Ricci Nelson, Dustin Clark, and other members of both current and pending litigation against the district), students, and staff (I personally have seen messages from RRISD staff sent to employees stating that they should not be near the administration building during times when these individuals are present due to constant threats, intimidation, and harassment).

I do hope that the district will take the above suggestions to heart and consider implementing a solution that aids in the safety and well-being of community members who have legitimate interests to advance the outcomes of RRISD students, faculty, and staff instead of bowing to radical extremists at the beck and call of scofflaws and their mistresses.

As to my bona fides, since several trustees will (no doubt) question them, I'm an Austin resident zoned for Round Rock ISD since 2014 (and living in Round Rock and Austin since 2008). I'm married to an RRISD employee who has been directly impacted by the decisions the board has made (most grievously by the [REDACTED] lack of enforcement / penalties), and I'm friends with quite a few RRISD employees. Subject: Thank you for contacting RRISD Board of Trustees. Suggestions re: persistent scofflaws / intimidation / harassment

Good evening!

I'm sure that you've spoken to counsel (as well as RRISD police, Round Rock police, and the Williamson County sheriff) about the persistent illegal activities performed on district property (and on camera, no less) by the scofflaws Jeremy Story, Dustin Clark, April Brinson, and Michelle Evans (who, as of this morning, launched a political campaign for the Texas House, which will, no doubt, involve dragging RRISD through the mud in order to further her own twisted agenda).

In light of yesterday's actions (which would normally merit a ticket for the noise violations without a permit, plus the use of school property for a rally - no doubt without district approval, excepting perhaps the trustee with whom they very visibly coordinate their actions), might I propose the following policy for the board's approval?

"Parents or community members involved in litigation against the district are not permitted to be on district property for any reason during the duration of their litigation without express written permission from RRISD campus or district leadership.

Should an affected individual wish to attend an on-campus school function, the affected individual must apply to the building principal or RRISD police for a one-time waiver, which may be granted at the discretion of the building principal or RRISD police. Each event that an affected individual wishes to attend requires a separate waiver approved by the building principal or RRISD police.

Should an affected individual wish to attend a board meeting, they must do so virtually via the provided livestream (per Texas Open Meetings Act requirements).

Should an affected individual wish to comment in the public commentary section of a board meeting, they may only do so via Zoom, conference call, or other virtual means.

Parent-teacher conferences for parents affected by this policy will be performed via teleconference.

Should an affected individual be required to be on campus for a matter regarding litigation, they must inform the building principal, administrative staff, or RRISD police at least 72 hours ahead of time in writing (either physically or electronically).

Penalties for individuals who violate this policy include, but are not limited to:

Criminal charges filed with the relevant authorities

Permanent bans from district property"

Considering that they willingly break TEC 37.23, 37.107, Round Rock noise / protest ordinances (14-212, 14-213, 14,215, and more), as well as TPC 38.13 (as Jeremy Story and Dustin Clark well know), it would be remiss not to suggest that the district implement something similar to the above in order to preserve both an orderly, threat-free environment for board meetings as well as to ensure the safety of commentators, attendees (multiple community members have come to me with stories about how they have been threatened and intimidated at board meetings by Ricci Nelson, Dustin Clark, and other members of both current and pending litigation against the district), students, and staff (I personally have seen messages from RRISD staff sent to employees stating that they should not be near the administration building during times when these individuals are present due to constant threats, intimidation, and harassment).

I do hope that the district will take the above suggestions to heart and consider implementing a solution that aids in the safety and well-being of community members who have legitimate interests to advance the outcomes of RRISD students, faculty, and staff instead of bowing to radical extremists at the beck and call of scofflaws and their mistresses.

As to my bona fides, since several trustees will (no doubt) question them, I'm an Austin resident zoned for Round Rock ISD since 2014 (and living in Round Rock and Austin since 2008). I'm married to an RRISD employee who has been directly impacted by the decisions the board has made (most grievously by the [REDACTED] lack of enforcement / penalties), and I'm friends with quite a few RRISD employees. I should also mention - though I have no doubt you've noticed already - my e-mail address; all I have to say about that is "whoopsie-doodle."

Chief Yarbrough,

I think the assertion is that the information Xiao posted on Facebook is "confidential" because as you say there is an open criminal investigation . Xiao is a public servant and he released Trustee Weston's name related to a criminal investigation. The Code of Criminal Procedure referenced below seems to say that her name is confidential? Can you point me to the policy on how criminal investigations are handled in RRISD; specifically information?

Dr. Azaiez,

Hopefully you understand that this concern goes beyond this instance. What are other Trustees, parents, staff and students to think if they bring criminal issues to the RRISD PD? Is this the level of confidentiality that is expected, that the issue along with their name be posted all over Social Media? Do you think this put Trustee Weston in danger? Do you think there may need to be policy around how this type of situation is handled?

This subchapter does not prohibit the inspector general of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice from disclosing a victim's identifying information to an employee of the department or the department's ombudsperson if the victim is an inmate or state jail defendant confined in a facility operated by or under contract with the department.

Added by Acts 2019, 86th Leg., R.S., Ch. 469 (H.B. 4173), Sec. 1.07, eff. January 1, 2021.

Art. 58.107. OFFENSE. (a) A public servant commits an offense if the public servant:

- (1) has access to the name, address, or telephone number of a victim 17 years of age or older who has chosen a pseudonym under this subchapter; and
- (2) knowingly discloses the name, address, or telephone number of the victim to:
 - (A) a person who is not assisting in the investigation or prosecution of the offense; or
 - (B) a person other than:
 - (i) the defendant;

- (ii) the defendant's attorney; or
- (iii) the person specified in the order of a court.

of an open investigation with parties unrelated to the investigation is legally problematic. I don't recall the board ever being briefed on other open investigations being conducted by the RRISD police. To the contrary. When I inquired about another open investigation (the arrests of 2 fathers who live in RRISD for alleged criminal behavior in our board meetings), both you and Chief Yarbrough asserted to me in writing via e-mail that I was not entitled to that information and I did not receive it. Which is it...are board members provided with information in open investigations or not? We can't have it both ways or have a double standard depending on which trustee asks for or receives it.

I am also awaiting word from Chief Yarbrough about whether Jun publicly sharing the contents of an open criminal investigation on social media is legally problematic as well.

While I completely sympathize with the frustration that Trustee Weston and you are feeling regarding a colleague posting information you wish they had not posted, Trustee Xiao is entitled to the exact same First Amendment protections of his speech that you and Trustee Weston enjoy. Until or unless the United States Supreme Court rules otherwise, neither I nor the Board have any ability to stop his speech per Houston Community College v. Wilson. He cannot be sanctioned or censured for his speech.

Having myself been the victim of public intimidation and threats to my home and my job after my colleagues repeatedly made, and continue to make, statements about me that are false, I do agree that there are very real and concerning consequences at stake here. We as a Board can discuss in closed session how we will treat each other, staff, and how we will act in our official capacities on the 16th as part of a roles and responsibilities discussion. We can also consult with legal counsel on the issues you and Trustee Weston site in your emails.

To call Trustee Xiao my surrogate is troubling and untrue. I am not sure why you have suddenly decided to attack me for another trustee's actions. Why would you make such an accusation? Please provide me with the proof or other information you have received that indicates he is acting as my surrogate, and the source of that proof or information.

Usually I will simply ignore my fellow Trustee's relentless and obsessive pursuit of self-importance; any integrity she once had had long been thrown out of the window for the pursuit of power and fame. She and her partner on the board are highly allergic to shame and show absolutely no remorse.

I am not of any help when teachers, staff, and admins are harassed and intimidated with conjured up accusations. That made me want to leave my seat in better hands.

But sometimes one just can't take it.

Trustee Weston not only wants to use RRISD PD to take actions, but "want criminal charges filed against this perpetrator ... work with the county attorney's office to obtain subpoenas to conduct an investigation." What's next? Ask donations on FB to put up a reward for a manhunt of this prankster who picked up your expired domain?

<https://www.electdanielleweston.com/>

Speaking of the FB page, the very first sentence "... won a seat on the Round Rock ISD Board of Trustees with 54% of the vote...more than any of the 11 candidates who ran in 2020." I'm not sure where the "more than any" comes from. Comparing candidates with 2 or 3 opponents on percentage?

At the very least, Dunning-Kruger effect is in full public display. Not a lawyer, pretending to be an expert in law along with folks who just want to stir distrust and chaos for political gains. Not a doctor, calling public health experts fools along with folks who believe microchips and nano-razors in vaccines. Not an educator, attacking teachers one way or the other along with folks who denounce public school's 'indoctrination' and 'horrific crimes on children'.

Veteran, yes. Used it like a jail free card at every turn.

It's just as bizarre as a wild comedy.

I am also still awaiting an answer from Chief Yarbrough about whether Dr Azaiez sharing the contents of an open investigation with parties unrelated to the investigation is legally problematic. I don't recall the board ever being briefed on other open investigations being conducted by the RRISD police. To the contrary. When I inquired about another open investigation (the arrests of 2 fathers who live in RRISD for alleged criminal behavior in our board meetings), both you and Chief Yarbrough asserted to me in writing via e-mail that I was not entitled to that information and I did not receive it. Which is it...are board members provided with information in open investigations or not? We can't have it both ways or have a double standard depending on which trustee asks for or receives it.

I am also awaiting word from Chief Yarbrough about whether Jun publicly sharing the contents of an open criminal investigation on social media is legally problematic as well.

While I completely sympathize with the frustration that Trustee Weston and you are feeling regarding a colleague posting information you wish they had not posted, Trustee Xiao is entitled to the exact same First Amendment protections of his speech that you and Trustee Weston enjoy. Until or unless the United States Supreme Court rules otherwise, neither I nor the Board have any ability to stop his speech per Houston Community College v. Wilson. He cannot be sanctioned or censured for his speech.

Having myself been the victim of public intimidation and threats to my home and my job after my colleagues repeatedly made, and continue to make, statements about me that are false, I do agree that there are very real and concerning consequences at stake here. We as a Board can discuss in closed session how we will treat each other, staff, and how we will act in our official capacities on the 16th as part of a roles and responsibilities discussion. We can also consult with legal counsel on the issues you and Trustee Weston site in your emails.

To call Trustee Xiao my surrogate is troubling and untrue. I am not sure why you have suddenly decided to attack me for another trustee's actions. Why would you make such an accusation? Please provide me with the proof or other information you have received that indicates he is acting as my surrogate, and the source of that proof or information.

Usually I will simply ignore my fellow Trustee's relentless and obsessive pursuit of self-importance; any integrity she once had had long been thrown out of the window for the pursuit of power and fame. She and her partner on the board are highly allergic to shame and show absolutely no remorse.

I am not of any help when teachers, staff, and admins are harassed and intimidated with conjured up accusations. That made me want to leave my seat in better hands.

But sometimes one just can't take it.

Trustee Weston not only wants to use RRISD PD to take actions, but "want criminal charges filed against this perpetrator ... work with the county attorney's office to obtain subpoenas to conduct an investigation." What's next? Ask donations on FB to put up a reward for a manhunt of this prankster who picked up your expired domain?

<https://www.electdanielleweston.com/>

Speaking of the FB page, the very first sentence "... won a seat on the Round Rock ISD Board of Trustees with 54% of the vote...more than any of the 11 candidates who ran in 2020." I'm not sure where the "more than any" comes from. Comparing candidates with 2 or 3 opponents on percentage?

At the very least, Dunning-Kruger effect is in full public display. Not a lawyer, pretending to be an expert in law along with folks who just want to stir distrust and chaos for political gains. Not a doctor, calling public health experts fools along with folks who believe microchips and nano-razors in vaccines. Not an educator, attacking teachers one way or the other along with folks who denounce public school's 'indoctrination' and 'horrific crimes on children'.

Veteran, yes. Used it like a jail free card at every turn.

It's just as bizarre as a wild comedy.

Subject: Thank you for contacting RRISD Board of Trustees. Suggestions re: persistent scofflaws / intimidation / harassment

To: Board_of_Trustees@roundrockisd.org <Board_of_Trustees@roundrockisd.org>

Good evening!

I'm sure that you've spoken to counsel (as well as RRISD police, Round Rock police, and the Williamson County sheriff) about the persistent illegal activities performed on district property (and on camera, no less) by the scofflaws Jeremy Story, Dustin Clark, April Brinson, and Michelle Evans (who, as of this morning, launched a political campaign for the Texas House, which will, no doubt, involve dragging RRISD through the mud in order to further her own twisted agenda).

In light of yesterday's actions (which would normally merit a ticket for the noise violations without a permit, plus the use of school property for a rally - no doubt without district approval, excepting perhaps the trustee with whom they very visibly coordinate their actions), might I propose the following policy for the board's approval?

"Parents or community members involved in litigation against the district are not permitted to be on district property for any reason during the duration of their litigation without express written permission from RRISD campus or district leadership.

Should an affected individual wish to attend an on-campus school function, the affected individual must apply to the building principal or RRISD police for a one-time waiver, which may be granted at the discretion of the building principal or RRISD police. Each event that an affected individual wishes to attend requires a separate waiver approved by the building principal or RRISD police.

Should an affected individual wish to attend a board meeting, they must do so virtually via the provided livestream (per Texas Open Meetings Act requirements).

Should an affected individual wish to comment in the public commentary section of a board meeting, they may only do so via Zoom, conference call, or other virtual means.

Parent-teacher conferences for parents affected by this policy will be performed via teleconference.

Should an affected individual be required to be on campus for a matter regarding litigation, they must inform the building principal, administrative staff, or RRISD police at least 72 hours ahead of time in writing (either physically or electronically).

Penalties for individuals who violate this policy include, but are not limited to:

Criminal charges filed with the relevant authorities

Permanent bans from district property"

Considering that they willingly break TEC 37.23, 37.107, Round Rock noise / protest ordinances (14-212, 14-213, 14,215, and more), as well as TPC 38.13 (as Jeremy Story and Dustin Clark well know), it would be remiss not to suggest that the district implement something similar to the above in order to preserve both an orderly, threat-free environment for board meetings as well as to ensure the safety of commentators, attendees (multiple community members have come to me with stories about how they have been threatened and intimidated at board meetings by Ricci Nelson, Dustin Clark, and other members of both current and pending litigation against the district), students, and staff (I personally have seen messages from RRISD staff sent to employees stating that they should not be near the administration building during times when these individuals are present due to constant threats, intimidation, and harassment).

I do hope that the district will take the above suggestions to heart and consider implementing a solution that aids in the safety and well-being of community members who have legitimate interests to advance the outcomes of RRISD students, faculty, and staff instead of bowing to radical extremists at the beck and call of scofflaws and their mistresses.

As to my bona fides, since several trustees will (no doubt) question them, I'm an Austin resident zoned for Round Rock ISD since 2014 (and living in Round Rock and Austin since 2008). I'm married to an RRISD employee who has been directly impacted by the decisions the board has made (most grievously by the [REDACTED] lack of enforcement / penalties), and I'm friends with quite a few RRISD employees. I should also mention - though I have no doubt you've noticed already - my e-mail address; all I have to say about that is "whoopsie-doodle."

Wishing the five reasonable and sane board members all the best (and saying "bless your heart" to the other two), I remain,

Subject: Thank you for contacting RRISD Board of Trustees. Proposed policy - legal costs and accounting

To: Board_of_Trustees@roundrockisd.org <Board_of_Trustees@roundrockisd.org>

Good afternoon!

As we all know, Round Rock ISD has been the target of several lawsuits and negative press attention brought on by vexatious litigants, misguided community members, ambitious political hacks seeking to launch new careers (or revitalize their failed careers), and blatant grifters hoping to line their pockets. Given that there seems to be a surplus of those groups at the moment, and as one of the biggest things that those groups complain about is "fiscal responsibility," I sat down with stakeholders throughout the district (including counsel, community members, parents, students, faculty, and staff), and productive discussions were had.

As such, I would like to present the following policy, crafted with input from the aforementioned groups, to the board for their perusal.

This ties into a particular suggestion that Trustee Feller discussed at the board meeting on November 21st, in which she suggested that costs for litigation be broken out by category (FAPE suits, personnel matters, vexatious litigation, et cetera).

As a starting point, the proposed policy would read as follows:

Round Rock ISD financial / accounting staff will, on a monthly basis, provide the board with an executive summary summarizing the district's legal expenditures (excluding in-depth details for confidential or restricted matters) for the previous rolling 30-day period.

This report will be provided to the board at least 96 hours in advance of each regularly scheduled monthly board meeting in order to allow board members and relevant stakeholders time to review the content therein in a timely fashion.

This report will contain the following information for the previous rolling 30-day period:

- Approximate amount spent on legal matters pertaining to FAPE / Special Education / IEP / 504 plans / etc.

- Approximate amount spent on legal matters pertaining to HR-related matters (e.g. EEOC complaints, wrongful termination, faculty / staff disciplinary matters, etc)

- Approximate amount spent on legal matters pertaining to public policy / lobbying efforts

- Approximate amount spent on legal matters pertaining to litigation brought by community

members / trustees / vexatious litigants (not pertaining to FAPE / special education / IEP / 504 matters)

The preparer of this section will detail the approximate expenditures required by the district to defend against each case, broken out by case number.

The preparer of this section will note if outside counsel was required for each case.

Information regarding the reason behind the utilization of outside counsel (e.g. conflict of interest) may be included at the discretion of district leadership.

Examples of cases covered under this section include, but are not limited to, the following:

Litigation brought about in regards to [REDACTED]

Litigation brought about in regards to unprofessional conduct as exhibited by trustees (including further litigation resulting from said unprofessional conduct)

Litigation brought about in regards to abuse of office / misuse of district resources (such as utilizing district resources for personal legal efforts / investigations)

Approximate amount spent on legal matters not pertaining to one of the above topics

District counsel may, at their discretion, provide guidance or instruction on the redaction of personally identifying information (or similar) as required under relevant law.

Obviously, this is not finished or polished language and guidance. That would be something that district leadership and counsel would need to fine-tune. However, as this would provide the board and public with an executive summary of what is being spent on legal matters - as well as make the community at large aware just how much of the district's resources are being drained by frivolous lawsuits by hypocrites, vexatious litigants, and those who fail to demonstrate personal responsibility for their actions - it may be something that district leadership may wish to consider implementing going forward.

Should an affected individual wish to attend a board meeting, they must do so virtually via the provided livestream (per Texas Open Meetings Act requirements).

Should an affected individual wish to comment in the public commentary section of a board meeting, they may only do so via Zoom, conference call, or other virtual means.

Parent-teacher conferences for parents affected by this policy will be performed via teleconference.

Should an affected individual be required to be on campus for a matter regarding litigation, they must inform the building principal, administrative staff, or RRISD police at least 72 hours ahead of time in writing (either physically or electronically).

Penalties for individuals who violate this policy include, but are not limited to:

Criminal charges filed with the relevant authorities

Permanent bans from district property"

Considering that they willingly break TEC 37.23, 37.107, Round Rock noise / protest ordinances (14-212, 14-213, 14,215, and more), as well as TPC 38.13 (as Jeremy Story and Dustin Clark well know), it would be remiss not to suggest that the district implement something similar to the above in order to preserve both an orderly, threat-free environment for board meetings as well as to ensure the safety of commentators, attendees (multiple community members have come to me with stories about how they have been threatened and intimidated at board meetings by Ricci Nelson, Dustin Clark, and other members of both current and pending litigation against the district), students, and staff (I personally have seen messages from RRISD staff sent to employees stating that they should not be near the administration building during times when these individuals are present due to constant threats, intimidation, and harassment).

I do hope that the district will take the above suggestions to heart and consider implementing a solution that aids in the safety and well-being of community members who have legitimate interests to advance the outcomes of RRISD students, faculty, and staff instead of bowing to radical extremists at the beck and call of scofflaws and their mistresses.

As to my bona fides, since several trustees will (no doubt) question them, I'm an Austin resident zoned for Round Rock ISD since 2014 (and living in Round Rock and Austin since 2008). I'm married to an RRISD employee who has been directly impacted by the decisions the board has made (most grievously by the [REDACTED] lack of enforcement / penalties), and I'm friends with quite a few RRISD employees. I should also mention - though I have no doubt you've noticed already - my e-mail address; all I have to say about that is "whoopsie-doodle."

Wishing the five reasonable and sane board members all the best (and saying "bless your heart" to the other two), I remain,

The Lizard King

Trustee Weston,

Just wanted to give you another update. I have sent over the emails and screenshots you provided to the Williamson County Attorney's Office. I am waiting to hear back from them, and I am still typing things up on my end as well. Let me know if you have any questions, or if you receive any further correspondence from the Lizard King individual.

What are the next steps in getting a subpoena to find out where all of this is coming from?

Subject: Thank you for contacting RRISD Board of Trustees. Proposed policy - legal costs and accounting

To: Board_of_Trustees@roundrockisd.org <Board_of_Trustees@roundrockisd.org>

Good afternoon!

As we all know, Round Rock ISD has been the target of several lawsuits and negative press attention brought on by vexatious litigants, misguided community members, ambitious political hacks seeking to launch new careers (or revitalize their failed careers), and blatant grifters hoping to line their pockets. Given that there seems to be a surplus of those groups at the moment, and as one of the biggest things that those groups complain about is "fiscal responsibility," I sat down with stakeholders throughout the district (including counsel, community members, parents, students, faculty, and staff), and productive discussions were had.

As such, I would like to present the following policy, crafted with input from the aforementioned groups, to the board for their perusal.

This ties into a particular suggestion that Trustee Feller discussed at the board meeting on November 21st, in which she suggested that costs for litigation be broken out by category (FAPE suits, personnel matters, vexatious litigation, et cetera).

As a starting point, the proposed policy would read as follows:

Round Rock ISD financial / accounting staff will, on a monthly basis, provide the board with an executive summary summarizing the district's legal expenditures (excluding in-depth details for confidential or restricted matters) for the previous rolling 30-day period.

This report will be provided to the board at least 96 hours in advance of each regularly scheduled monthly board meeting in order to allow board members and relevant stakeholders time to review the content therein in a timely fashion.

This report will contain the following information for the previous rolling 30-day period:

- Approximate amount spent on legal matters pertaining to FAPE / Special Education / IEP / 504 plans / etc.

- Approximate amount spent on legal matters pertaining to HR-related matters (e.g. EEOC complaints, wrongful termination, faculty / staff disciplinary matters, etc)

- Approximate amount spent on legal matters pertaining to public policy / lobbying efforts

- Approximate amount spent on legal matters pertaining to litigation brought by community

members / trustees / vexatious litigants (not pertaining to FAPE / special education / IEP / 504 matters)

The preparer of this section will detail the approximate expenditures required by the district to defend against each case, broken out by case number.

The preparer of this section will note if outside counsel was required for each case.

Information regarding the reason behind the utilization of outside counsel (e.g. conflict of interest) may be included at the discretion of district leadership.

Examples of cases covered under this section include, but are not limited to, the following:

Litigation brought about in regards to [REDACTED]

Litigation brought about in regards to unprofessional conduct as exhibited by trustees (including further litigation resulting from said unprofessional conduct)

Litigation brought about in regards to abuse of office / misuse of district resources (such as utilizing district resources for personal legal efforts / investigations)

Approximate amount spent on legal matters not pertaining to one of the above topics

District counsel may, at their discretion, provide guidance or instruction on the redaction of personally identifying information (or similar) as required under relevant law.

Obviously, this is not finished or polished language and guidance. That would be something that district leadership and counsel would need to fine-tune. However, as this would provide the board and public with an executive summary of what is being spent on legal matters - as well as make the community at large aware just how much of the district's resources are being drained by frivolous lawsuits by hypocrites, vexatious litigants, and those who fail to demonstrate personal responsibility for their actions - it may be something that district leadership may wish to consider implementing going forward.

I remain,

The preparer of this section will note if outside counsel was required for each case.

Information regarding the reason behind the utilization of outside counsel (e.g. conflict of interest) may be included at the discretion of district leadership.

Examples of cases covered under this section include, but are not limited to, the following:

Litigation brought about in regards to [REDACTED]

Litigation brought about in regards to unprofessional conduct as exhibited by trustees (including further litigation resulting from said unprofessional conduct)

Litigation brought about in regards to abuse of office / misuse of district resources (such as utilizing district resources for personal legal efforts / investigations)

Approximate amount spent on legal matters not pertaining to one of the above topics

District counsel may, at their discretion, provide guidance or instruction on the redaction of personally identifying information (or similar) as required under relevant law.

Obviously, this is not finished or polished language and guidance. That would be something that district leadership and counsel would need to fine-tune. However, as this would provide the board and public with an executive summary of what is being spent on legal matters - as well as make the community at large aware just how much of the district's resources are being drained by frivolous lawsuits by hypocrites, vexatious litigants, and those who fail to demonstrate personal responsibility for their actions - it may be something that district leadership may wish to consider implementing going forward.

Subject: Thank you for contacting RRISD Board of Trustees. Proposed policy - legal costs and accounting

To: Board_of_Trustees@roundrockisd.org <Board_of_Trustees@roundrockisd.org>

Good afternoon!

As we all know, Round Rock ISD has been the target of several lawsuits and negative press attention brought on by vexatious litigants, misguided community members, ambitious political hacks seeking to launch new careers (or revitalize their failed careers), and blatant grifters hoping to line their pockets. Given that there seems to be a surplus of those groups at the moment, and as one of the biggest things that those groups complain about is "fiscal responsibility," I sat down with stakeholders throughout the district (including counsel, community members, parents, students, faculty, and staff), and productive discussions were had.

As such, I would like to present the following policy, crafted with input from the aforementioned groups, to the board for their perusal.

This ties into a particular suggestion that Trustee Feller discussed at the board meeting on November 21st, in which she suggested that costs for litigation be broken out by category (FAPE suits, personnel matters, vexatious litigation, et cetera).

As a starting point, the proposed policy would read as follows:

Round Rock ISD financial / accounting staff will, on a monthly basis, provide the board with an executive summary summarizing the district's legal expenditures (excluding in-depth details for confidential or restricted matters) for the previous rolling 30-day period.

This report will be provided to the board at least 96 hours in advance of each regularly scheduled monthly board meeting in order to allow board members and relevant stakeholders time to review the content therein in a timely fashion.

This report will contain the following information for the previous rolling 30-day period:

- Approximate amount spent on legal matters pertaining to FAPE / Special Education / IEP / 504 plans / etc.

- Approximate amount spent on legal matters pertaining to HR-related matters (e.g. EEOC complaints, wrongful termination, faculty / staff disciplinary matters, etc)

- Approximate amount spent on legal matters pertaining to public policy / lobbying efforts

- Approximate amount spent on legal matters pertaining to litigation brought by community

members / trustees / vexatious litigants (not pertaining to FAPE / special education / IEP / 504 matters)

The preparer of this section will detail the approximate expenditures required by the district to defend against each case, broken out by case number.

The preparer of this section will note if outside counsel was required for each case.

Information regarding the reason behind the utilization of outside counsel (e.g. conflict of interest) may be included at the discretion of district leadership.

Examples of cases covered under this section include, but are not limited to, the following:

District counsel may, at their discretion, provide guidance or instruction on the redaction of personally identifying information (or similar) as required under relevant law.

Obviously, this is not finished or polished language and guidance. That would be something that district leadership and counsel would need to fine-tune. However, as this would provide the board and public with an executive summary of what is being spent on legal matters - as well as make the community at large aware just how much of the district's resources are being drained by frivolous lawsuits by hypocrites, vexatious litigants, and those who fail to demonstrate personal responsibility for their actions - it may be something that district leadership may wish to consider implementing going forward.

To: Board_of_Trustees@roundrockisd.org <Board_of_Trustees@roundrockisd.org>

Good evening!

I'm sure that you've spoken to counsel (as well as RRISD police, Round Rock police, and the Williamson County sheriff) about the persistent illegal activities performed on district property (and on camera, no less) by the scofflaws Jeremy Story, Dustin Clark, April Brinson, and Michelle Evans (who, as of this morning, launched a political campaign for the Texas House, which will, no doubt, involve dragging RRISD through the mud in order to further her own twisted agenda).

In light of yesterday's actions (which would normally merit a ticket for the noise violations without a permit, plus the use of school property for a rally - no doubt without district approval, excepting perhaps the trustee with whom they very visibly coordinate their actions), might I propose the following policy for the board's approval?

"Parents or community members involved in litigation against the district are not permitted to be on district property for any reason during the duration of their litigation without express written permission from RRISD campus or district leadership.

Should an affected individual wish to attend an on-campus school function, the affected individual must apply to the building principal or RRISD police for a one-time waiver, which may be granted at the discretion of the building principal or RRISD police. Each event that an affected individual wishes to attend requires a separate waiver approved by the building principal or RRISD police.

Should an affected individual wish to attend a board meeting, they must do so virtually via the provided livestream (per Texas Open Meetings Act requirements).

Should an affected individual wish to comment in the public commentary section of a board meeting, they may only do so via Zoom, conference call, or other virtual means.

Parent-teacher conferences for parents affected by this policy will be performed via teleconference.

Should an affected individual be required to be on campus for a matter regarding litigation, they must inform the building principal, administrative staff, or RRISD police at least 72 hours ahead of time in writing (either physically or electronically).

Penalties for individuals who violate this policy include, but are not limited to:

Criminal charges filed with the relevant authorities

Permanent bans from district property"

Considering that they willingly break TEC 37.23, 37.107, Round Rock noise / protest ordinances (14-212, 14-213, 14,215, and more), as well as TPC 38.13 (as Jeremy Story and Dustin Clark well know), it would be remiss not to suggest that the district implement something similar to the above in order to preserve both an orderly, threat-free environment for board meetings as well as to ensure the safety of commentators, attendees (multiple community members have come to me with stories about how they have been threatened and intimidated at board meetings by Ricci Nelson, Dustin Clark, and other members of both current and pending litigation against the district), students, and staff (I personally have seen messages from RRISD staff sent to employees stating that they should not be near the administration building during times when these individuals are present due to constant threats, intimidation, and harassment).

I do hope that the district will take the above suggestions to heart and consider implementing a solution that aids in the safety and well-being of community members who have legitimate interests to advance the outcomes of RRISD students, faculty, and staff instead of bowing to radical extremists at the beck and call of scofflaws and their mistresses.

As to my bona fides, since several trustees will (no doubt) question them, I'm an Austin resident zoned for Round Rock ISD since 2014 (and living in Round Rock and Austin since 2008). I'm married to an RRISD employee who has been directly impacted by the decisions the board has made (most grievously by the [REDACTED] lack of enforcement / penalties), and I'm friends with quite a few RRISD employees. I should also mention - though I have no doubt you've noticed already - my e-mail address; all I have to say about that is "whoopsie-doodle."

Wishing the five reasonable and sane board members all the best (and saying "bless your heart" to the other two), I remain,

Dr Azaiez, The original email that went to the entire board from the perpetrator was prior to the discussion on this thread of opening a criminal investigation with the RRISD PD and prior to the discussion of the statutory violations, discussion on strategy of working with the county attorney to obtain subpoenas and discussion, Mary and I both fearing for our safety and the recap of all I discussed with the detective. All of that took place after the original email was sent.

I appreciate you saying you shared the email in good faith. I have also sent emails in good faith but I have been treated very aggressively for this. We need to have equal treatment for all of us when it comes to good faith mistakes. We probably shouldn't go down a road of inequitable treatment.

Chief Yarbrough,

I did not ask whether Xiao publicly posting confidential information about a pending investigation interfered with the investigation.

I asked:

As proven in this text thread, on Friday, Dec 3 at 5:10 pm, Dr Azaiez decided to share private information about a criminal investigation to parties unrelated to the matter including Jun Xiao, Cory Vessa, Amber Feller, Amy Weir and Tiffanie Harrison. I know this is highly problematic and unacceptable. We need to know if this was legal.

We know that once this was shared with him, Jun Xiao took to his Facebook page and publicly attached my name to the contents of an open law enforcement investigation and harassed me. He also shared a website address he knows is impersonating me, Mary cited that statute above. As a board of trustees, we have a multi-step sanction process in our operating procedures to address this. But we also need to know if Xiao sharing this publicly was legal.

The part that is underlined are my questions I still have not received answers to. It's been four days and I still do not have answers. Should I go to the city of Round Rock police for answers?

As stated in this email thread on Friday, I have been concerned for my safety and the safety of my family since Friday and I want accountability for all parties from the RRISD PD.

I have not heard a word from Dr Azaiez or Pres Weir about the harm this has brought to me. Your silence is deafening.

Can you point me to the policy on how criminal investigations are handled in RRISD; specifically information?

Dr. Azaiez,

Hopefully you understand that this concern goes beyond this instance. What are other Trustees, parents, staff and students to think if they bring criminal issues to the RRISD PD? Is this the level of confidentiality that is expected, that the issue along with their name be posted all over Social Media? Do you think this put Trustee Weston in danger? Do you think there may need to be policy around how this type of situation is handled?

Subject: Thank you for contacting RRISD Board of Trustees. Suggestions re: persistent scofflaws / intimidation / harassment

To: Board_of_Trustees@roundrockisd.org <Board_of_Trustees@roundrockisd.org>

Good evening!

I'm sure that you've spoken to counsel (as well as RRISD police, Round Rock police, and the Williamson County sheriff) about the persistent illegal activities performed on district property (and on camera, no less) by the scofflaws Jeremy Story, Dustin Clark, April Brinson, and Michelle Evans (who, as of this morning, launched a political campaign for the Texas House, which will, no doubt, involve dragging RRISD through the mud in order to further her own twisted agenda).

In light of yesterday's actions (which would normally merit a ticket for the noise violations without a permit, plus the use of school property for a rally - no doubt without district approval, excepting perhaps the trustee with whom they very visibly coordinate their actions), might I propose the following policy for the board's approval?

"Parents or community members involved in litigation against the district are not permitted to be on district property for any reason during the duration of their litigation without express written permission from RRISD campus or district leadership.

Should an affected individual wish to attend an on-campus school function, the affected individual must apply to the building principal or RRISD police for a one-time waiver, which may be granted at the discretion of the building principal or RRISD police. Each event that an affected individual wishes to attend requires a separate waiver approved by the building principal or RRISD police.

Should an affected individual wish to attend a board meeting, they must do so virtually via the provided livestream (per Texas Open Meetings Act requirements).

Should an affected individual wish to comment in the public commentary section of a board meeting, they may only do so via Zoom, conference call, or other virtual means.

Parent-teacher conferences for parents affected by this policy will be performed via teleconference.

Should an affected individual be required to be on campus for a matter regarding litigation, they must inform the building principal, administrative staff, or RRISD police at least 72 hours ahead of time in writing (either physically or electronically).

Penalties for individuals who violate this policy include, but are not limited to:

Criminal charges filed with the relevant authorities

Permanent bans from district property"

Considering that they willingly break TEC 37.23, 37.107, Round Rock noise / protest ordinances (14-212, 14-213, 14,215, and more), as well as TPC 38.13 (as Jeremy Story and Dustin Clark well know), it would be remiss not to suggest that the district implement something similar to the above in order to preserve both an orderly, threat-free environment for board meetings as well as to ensure the safety of commentators, attendees (multiple community members have come to me with stories about how they have been threatened and intimidated at board meetings by Ricci Nelson, Dustin Clark, and other members of both current and pending litigation against the district), students, and staff (I personally have seen messages from RRISD staff sent to employees stating that they should not be near the administration building during times when these individuals are present due to constant threats, intimidation, and harassment).

I do hope that the district will take the above suggestions to heart and consider implementing a solution that aids in the safety and well-being of community members who have legitimate interests to advance the outcomes of RRISD students, faculty, and staff instead of bowing to radical extremists at the beck and call of scofflaws and their mistresses.

As to my bona fides, since several trustees will (no doubt) question them, I'm an Austin resident zoned for Round Rock ISD since 2014 (and living in Round Rock and Austin since 2008). I'm married to an RRISD employee who has been directly impacted by the decisions the board has made (most grievously by the [REDACTED] lack of enforcement / penalties), and I'm friends with quite a few RRISD employees. I should also mention - though I have no doubt you've noticed already - my e-mail address; all I have to say about that is "whoopsie-doodle."

I'm a resident of the city of Round Rock and I'd like the city police to be aware of this as well. Let me know how to proceed on that Chief Yarbrough. Below is a screenshot from Reddit and cites the egg throwing. I gave this to the detective earlier today.

The surrogates of trustees committing crimes (the statute is cited in this thread) has now escalated to a trustee publicly sharing confidential information (contents of an open law enforcement investigation) on social media.

I look forward to updates from Weir and Azaiez in the morning on this status of this mess.

Usually I will simply ignore my fellow Trustee's relentless and obsessive pursuit of self-importance; any integrity she once had had long been thrown out of the window for the pursuit of power and fame. She and her partner on the board are highly allergic to shame and show absolutely no remorse.

I am not of any help when teachers, staff, and admins are harassed and intimidated with conjured up accusations. That made me want to leave my seat in better hands.

But sometimes one just can't take it.

Trustee Weston not only wants to use RRISD PD to take actions, but "want criminal charges filed against this perpetrator ... work with the county attorney's office to obtain subpoenas to conduct an investigation." What's next? Ask donations on FB to put up a reward for a manhunt of this prankster who picked up your expired domain?

<https://www.electdanielweston.com/>

Speaking of the FB page, the very first sentence "... won a seat on the Round Rock ISD Board of Trustees with 54% of the vote...more than any of the 11 candidates who ran in 2020." I'm not sure where the "more than any" comes from. Comparing candidates with 2 or 3 opponents on percentage?

At the very least, Dunning-Kruger effect is in full public display. Not a lawyer, pretending to be an expert in law along with folks who just want to stir distrust and chaos for political gains. Not a doctor, calling public health experts fools along with folks who believe microchips and nano-razors in vaccines. Not an educator, attacking teachers one way or the other along with folks who denounce public school's 'indoctrination' and 'horrific crimes on children'.

Veteran, yes. Used it like a jail free card at every turn.

It's just as bizarre as a wild comedy.

Chief Yarbrough,

From an earlier social media post it is possible that this person, Jack Chiles, is the same as the person impersonating Danielle. You will see that he says he is going to "teach" Trustee Weston a "lesson" in the attached post.

Usually I will simply ignore my fellow Trustee's relentless and obsessive pursuit of self-importance; any integrity she once had had long been thrown out of the window for the pursuit of power and fame. She and her partner on the board are highly allergic to shame and show absolutely no remorse.

I am not of any help when teachers, staff, and admins are harassed and intimidated with conjured up accusations. That made me want to leave my seat in better hands.

But sometimes one just can't take it.

Trustee Weston not only wants to use RRISD PD to take actions, but "want criminal charges filed against this perpetrator ... work with the county attorney's office to obtain subpoenas to conduct an investigation." What's next? Ask donations on FB to put up a reward for a manhunt of this prankster who picked up your expired domain?

<https://www.electdanielleweston.com/>

Speaking of the FB page, the very first sentence "... won a seat on the Round Rock ISD Board of Trustees with 54% of the vote...more than any of the 11 candidates who ran in 2020." I'm not sure where the "more than any" comes from. Comparing candidates with 2 or 3 opponents on percentage?

Subject: Thank you for contacting RRISD Board of Trustees. Suggestions re: persistent scofflaws / intimidation / harassment

To: Board_of_Trustees@roundrockisd.org <Board_of_Trustees@roundrockisd.org>

Good evening!

I'm sure that you've spoken to counsel (as well as RRISD police, Round Rock police, and the Williamson County sheriff) about the persistent illegal activities performed on district property (and on camera, no less) by the scofflaws Jeremy Story, Dustin Clark, April Brinson, and Michelle Evans (who, as of this morning, launched a political campaign for the Texas House, which will, no doubt, involve dragging RRISD through the mud in order to further her own twisted agenda).

In light of yesterday's actions (which would normally merit a ticket for the noise violations without a permit, plus the use of school property for a rally - no doubt without district approval, excepting perhaps the trustee with whom they very visibly coordinate their actions), might I propose the following policy for the board's approval?

"Parents or community members involved in litigation against the district are not permitted to be on district property for any reason during the duration of their litigation without express written permission from RRISD campus or district leadership.

Should an affected individual wish to attend an on-campus school function, the affected individual must apply to the building principal or RRISD police for a one-time waiver, which may be granted at the discretion of the building principal or RRISD police. Each event that an affected individual wishes to attend requires a separate waiver approved by the building principal or RRISD police.

Should an affected individual wish to attend a board meeting, they must do so virtually via the provided livestream (per Texas Open Meetings Act requirements).

Should an affected individual wish to comment in the public commentary section of a board meeting, they may only do so via Zoom, conference call, or other virtual means.

Parent-teacher conferences for parents affected by this policy will be performed via teleconference.

Should an affected individual be required to be on campus for a matter regarding litigation, they must inform the building principal, administrative staff, or RRISD police at least 72 hours ahead of time in writing (either physically or electronically).

Penalties for individuals who violate this policy include, but are not limited to:

Criminal charges filed with the relevant authorities

Permanent bans from district property"

Considering that they willingly break TEC 37.23, 37.107, Round Rock noise / protest ordinances (14-212, 14-213, 14,215, and more), as well as TPC 38.13 (as Jeremy Story and Dustin Clark well know), it would be remiss not to suggest that the district implement something similar to the above in order to preserve both an orderly, threat-free environment for board meetings as well as to ensure the safety of commentators, attendees (multiple community members have come to me with stories about how they have been threatened and intimidated at board meetings by Ricci Nelson, Dustin Clark, and other members of both current and pending litigation against the district), students, and staff (I personally have seen messages from RRISD staff sent to employees stating that they should not be near the administration building during times when these individuals are present due to constant threats, intimidation, and harassment).

I do hope that the district will take the above suggestions to heart and consider implementing a solution that aids in the safety and well-being of community members who have legitimate interests to advance the outcomes of RRISD students, faculty, and staff instead of bowing to radical extremists at the beck and call of scofflaws and their mistresses.

As to my bona fides, since several trustees will (no doubt) question them, I'm an Austin resident zoned for Round Rock ISD since 2014 (and living in Round Rock and Austin since 2008). I'm married to an RRISD employee who has been directly impacted by the decisions the board has made (most grievously by the [REDACTED] lack of enforcement / penalties), and I'm friends with quite a few RRISD employees. I should also mention - though I have no doubt you've noticed already - my e-mail address; all I have to say about that is "whoopsie-doodle."

Wishing the five reasonable and sane board members all the best (and saying "bless your heart" to the other two), I remain,

The Lizard King

Chief Yarbrough,

I did not ask whether Xiao publicly posting confidential information about a pending investigation interfered with the investigation.

I asked:

As proven in this text thread, on Friday, Dec 3 at 5:10 pm, Dr Azaiez decided to share private information about a criminal investigation to parties unrelated to the matter including Jun Xiao, Cory Vessa, Amber Feller, Amy Weir and Tiffanie Harrison. I know this is highly problematic and unacceptable. We need to know if this was legal.

We know that once this was shared with him, Jun Xiao took to his Facebook page and publicly attached my name to the contents of an open law enforcement investigation and harassed me. He also shared a website address he knows is impersonating me, Mary cited that statute above. As a board of trustees, we have a multi-step sanction process in our operating procedures to address this. But we also need to know if Xiao sharing this publicly was legal.

The part that is underlined are my questions I still have not received answers to. It's been four days and I still do not have answers. Should I go to the city of Round Rock police for answers?

As stated in this email thread on Friday, I have been concerned for my safety and the safety of my family since Friday and I want accountability for all parties from the RRISD PD.

I have not heard a word from Dr Azaiez or Pres Weir about the harm this has brought to me. Your silence is deafening.

Please advise on if there is something I was supposed to do differently when Xiao did this to me on Friday. I am always open to feedback.

Can you point me to the policy on how criminal investigations are handled in RRISD; specifically information?

Dr. Azaiez,

Hopefully you understand that this concern goes beyond this instance. What are other Trustees, parents, staff and students to think if they bring criminal issues to the RRISD PD? Is this the level of confidentiality that is expected, that the issue along with their name be posted all over Social Media? Do you think this put Trustee Weston in danger? Do you think there may need to be policy around how this type of situation is handled?

I don't recall the board ever being briefed on other open investigations being conducted by the RRISD police. To the contrary. When I inquired about another open investigation (the arrests of 2 fathers who live in RRISD for alleged criminal behavior in our board meetings), both you and Chief Yarbrough asserted to me in writing via e-mail that I was not entitled to that information and I did not receive it. Which is it...are board members provided with information in open investigations or not? We can't have it both ways or have a double standard depending on which trustee asks for or receives it.

I am also awaiting word from Chief Yarbrough about whether Jun publicly sharing the contents of an open criminal investigation on social media is legally problematic as well.

He cannot be sanctioned or censured for his speech.

Having myself been the victim of public intimidation and threats to my home and my job after my colleagues repeatedly made, and continue to make, statements about me that are false, I do agree that there are very real and concerning consequences at stake here. We as a Board can discuss in closed session how we will treat each other, staff, and how we will act in our official capacities on the 16th as part of a roles and responsibilities discussion. We can also consult with legal counsel on the issues you and Trustee Weston site in your emails.

To call Trustee Xiao my surrogate is troubling and untrue. I am not sure why you have suddenly decided to attack me for another trustee's actions. Why would you make such an accusation? Subject: Thank you for contacting RRISD Board of Trustees. Suggestions re: persistent scofflaws / intimidation / harassment

Good evening!

I'm sure that you've spoken to counsel (as well as RRISD police, Round Rock police, and the Williamson County sheriff) about the persistent illegal activities performed on district property (and on camera, no less) by the scofflaws Jeremy Story, Dustin Clark, April Brinson, and Michelle Evans (who, as of this morning, launched a political campaign for the Texas House, which will, no doubt, involve dragging RRISD through the mud in order to further her own twisted agenda).

In light of yesterday's actions (which would normally merit a ticket for the noise violations without a permit, plus the use of school property for a rally - no doubt without district approval, excepting perhaps the trustee with whom they very visibly coordinate their actions), might I propose the following policy for the board's approval?

"Parents or community members involved in litigation against the district are not permitted to be on district property for any reason during the duration of their litigation without express written permission from RRISD campus or district leadership.

Should an affected individual wish to attend an on-campus school function, the affected individual must apply to the building principal or RRISD police for a one-time waiver, which may be granted at the discretion of the building principal or RRISD police. Each event that an affected individual wishes to attend requires a separate waiver approved by the building principal or RRISD police.

Should an affected individual wish to attend a board meeting, they must do so virtually via the provided livestream (per Texas Open Meetings Act requirements).

Should an affected individual wish to comment in the public commentary section of a board meeting, they may only do so via Zoom, conference call, or other virtual means.

Parent-teacher conferences for parents affected by this policy will be performed via teleconference.

Should an affected individual be required to be on campus for a matter regarding litigation, they must inform the building principal, administrative staff, or RRISD police at least 72 hours ahead of time in writing (either physically or electronically).

Penalties for individuals who violate this policy include, but are not limited to:

Criminal charges filed with the relevant authorities

Permanent bans from district property"

Considering that they willingly break TEC 37.23, 37.107, Round Rock noise / protest ordinances (14-212, 14-213, 14,215, and more), as well as TPC 38.13 (as Jeremy Story and Dustin Clark well know), it would be remiss not to suggest that the district implement something similar to the above in order to preserve both an orderly, threat-free environment for board meetings as well as to ensure the safety of commentators, attendees (multiple community members have come to me with stories about how they have been threatened and intimidated at board meetings by Ricci Nelson, Dustin Clark, and other members of both current and pending litigation against the district), students, and staff (I personally have seen messages from RRISD staff sent to employees stating that they should not be near the administration building during times when these individuals are present due to constant threats, intimidation, and harassment).

I do hope that the district will take the above suggestions to heart and consider implementing a solution that aids in the safety and well-being of community members who have legitimate interests to advance the outcomes of RRISD students, faculty, and staff instead of bowing to radical extremists at the beck and call of scofflaws and their mistresses.

As to my bona fides, since several trustees will (no doubt) question them, I'm an Austin resident zoned for Round Rock ISD since 2014 (and living in Round Rock and Austin since 2008). I'm married to an RRISD employee who has been directly impacted by the decisions the board has made (most grievously by the [REDACTED] lack of enforcement / penalties), and I'm friends with quite a few RRISD employees. I should also mention - though I have no doubt you've noticed already - my e-mail address; all I have to say about that is "whoopsie-doodle."

Trustee Weston,

Your questions are best addressed by legal counsel, not the RRISD PD Chief. I will make copies of the emails detailing your concerns and we can discuss on the 16th as part of the roles and responsibilities of board members and employees.

Chief Yarbrough,

I did not ask whether Xiao publicly posting confidential information about a pending investigation interfered with the investigation.

I asked:

As proven in this text thread, on Friday, Dec 3 at 5:10 pm, Dr Azaiez decided to share private information about a criminal investigation to parties unrelated to the matter including Jun Xiao, Cory Vessa, Amber Feller, Amy Weir and Tiffanie Harrison. I know this is highly problematic and unacceptable. We need to know if this was legal.

We know that once this was shared with him, Jun Xiao took to his Facebook page and publicly attached my name to the contents of an open law enforcement investigation and harassed me. He also shared a website address he knows is impersonating me, Mary cited that statute above. As a board of trustees, we have a multi-step sanction process in our operating procedures to address this. But we also need to know if Xiao sharing this publicly was legal.

The part that is underlined are my questions I still have not received answers to. It's been four days and I still do not have answers. Should I go to the city of Round Rock police for answers?

As stated in this email thread on Friday, I have been concerned for my safety and the safety of my family since Friday and I want accountability for all parties from the RRISD PD.

I have not heard a word from Dr Azaiez or Pres Weir about the harm this has brought to me. Your silence is deafening.

Mr Faltys,

Please advise on if there is something I was supposed to do differently when Xiao did this to me on Friday. I am always open to feedback.

Chief Yarbrough,

I think the assertion is that the information Xiao posted on Facebook is "confidential" because as you say there is an open criminal investigation . Xiao is a public servant and he released Trustee Weston's name related to a criminal investigation. The Code of Criminal Procedure referenced below seems to say that her name is confidential? Can you point me to the policy on how criminal investigations are handled in RRISD; specifically information?

Dr. Azaiez,

Hopefully you understand that this concern goes beyond this instance. What are other Trustees, parents, staff and students to think if they bring criminal issues to the RRISD PD? Is this the level of confidentiality that is expected, that the issue along with their name be posted all over Social Media? Do you think this put Trustee Weston in danger? Do you think there may need to be policy around how this type of situation is handled?

I am also still awaiting an answer from Chief Yarbrough about whether Dr Azaiez sharing the contents of an open investigation with parties unrelated to the investigation is legally problematic. I don't recall the board ever being briefed on other open investigations being conducted by the RRISD police. To the contrary. When I inquired about another open investigation (the arrests of 2 fathers who live in RRISD for alleged criminal behavior in our board meetings), both you and Chief Yarbrough asserted to me in writing via e-mail that I was not entitled to that information and I did not receive it. Which is it...are board members provided with information in open investigations or not? We can't have it both ways or have a double standard depending on which trustee asks for or receives it.

I am also awaiting word from Chief Yarbrough about whether Jun publicly sharing the contents of an open criminal investigation on social media is legally problematic as well.

Until or unless the United States Supreme Court rules otherwise, neither I nor the Board have any ability to stop his speech per Houston Community College v. Wilson. He cannot be sanctioned or censured for his speech.

Having myself been the victim of public intimidation and threats to my home and my job after my colleagues repeatedly made, and continue to make, statements about me that are false, I do agree that there are very real and concerning consequences at stake here. We as a Board can discuss in closed session how we will treat each other, staff, and how we will act in our official capacities on the 16th as part of a roles and responsibilities discussion. We can also consult with legal counsel on the issues you and Trustee Weston site in your emails.

To call Trustee Xiao my surrogate is troubling and untrue. I am not sure why you have suddenly decided to attack me for another trustee's actions. Why would you make such an accusation? Please provide me with the proof or other information you have received that indicates he is acting as my surrogate, and the source of that proof or information.

Usually I will simply ignore my fellow Trustee's relentless and obsessive pursuit of self-importance; any integrity she once had had long been thrown out of the window for the pursuit of power and fame. She and her partner on the board are highly allergic to shame and show absolutely no remorse.

I am not of any help when teachers, staff, and admins are harassed and intimidated with conjured up accusations. That made me want to leave my seat in better hands.

But sometimes one just can't take it.

Trustee Weston not only wants to use RRISD PD to take actions, but "want criminal charges filed against this perpetrator ... work with the county attorney's office to obtain subpoenas to conduct an investigation." What's next? Ask donations on FB to put up a reward for a manhunt of this prankster who picked up your expired domain?

<https://www.electdanielleweston.com/>

Speaking of the FB page, the very first sentence "... won a seat on the Round Rock ISD Board of Trustees with 54% of the vote...more than any of the 11 candidates who ran in 2020." I'm not sure where the "more than any" comes from. Comparing candidates with 2 or 3 opponents on percentage?

At the very least, Dunning-Kruger effect is in full public display. Not a lawyer, pretending to be an expert in law along with folks who just want to stir distrust and chaos for political gains. Not a doctor, calling public health experts fools along with folks who believe microchips and nano-razors in vaccines. Not an educator, attacking teachers one way or the other along with folks who denounce public school's 'indoctrination' and 'horrific crimes on children'.

Veteran, yes. Used it like a jail free card at every turn.

It's just as bizarre as a wild comedy.

Trustee Bone,

While I completely sympathize with the frustration that Trustee Weston and you are feeling regarding a colleague posting information you wish they had not posted, Trustee Xiao is entitled to the exact same First Amendment protections of his speech that you and Trustee Weston enjoy. Until or unless the United States Supreme Court rules otherwise, neither I nor the Board have any ability to stop his speech per Houston Community College v. Wilson. He cannot be sanctioned or censured for his speech.

Having myself been the victim of public intimidation and threats to my home and my job after my colleagues repeatedly made, and continue to make, statements about me that are false, I do agree that there are very real and concerning consequences at stake here. We as a Board can discuss in closed session how we will treat each other, staff, and how we will act in our official capacities on the 16th as part of a roles and responsibilities discussion. We can also consult with legal counsel on the issues you and Trustee Weston site in your emails.

To call Trustee Xiao my surrogate is troubling and untrue. I am not sure why you have suddenly decided to attack me for another trustee's actions. Why would you make such an accusation? Please provide me with the proof or other information you have received that indicates he is acting as my surrogate, and the source of that proof or information.

Usually I will simply ignore my fellow Trustee's relentless and obsessive pursuit of self-importance; any integrity she once had had long been thrown out of the window for the pursuit of power and fame. She and her partner on the board are highly allergic to shame and show absolutely no remorse.

I am not of any help when teachers, staff, and admins are harassed and intimidated with conjured up accusations. That made me want to leave my seat in better hands.

But sometimes one just can't take it.

Trustee Weston not only wants to use RRISD PD to take actions, but "want criminal charges filed against this perpetrator ... work with the county attorney's office to obtain subpoenas to conduct an investigation." What's next? Ask donations on FB to put up a reward for a manhunt of this prankster who picked up your expired domain?

<https://www.electdanielleweston.com/>

Speaking of the FB page, the very first sentence "... won a seat on the Round Rock ISD Board of Trustees with 54% of the vote...more than any of the 11 candidates who ran in 2020." I'm not sure where the "more than any" comes from. Comparing candidates with 2 or 3 opponents on percentage?

At the very least, Dunning-Kruger effect is in full public display. Not a lawyer, pretending to be an expert in law along with folks who just want to stir distrust and chaos for political gains. Not a doctor, calling public health experts fools along with folks who believe microchips and nano-razors in vaccines. Not an educator, attacking teachers one way or the other along with folks who denounce public school's 'indoctrination' and 'horrific crimes on children'.

Veteran, yes. Used it like a jail free card at every turn.

To: Board_of_Trustees@roundrockisd.org <Board_of_Trustees@roundrockisd.org>

Good evening!

I'm sure that you've spoken to counsel (as well as RRISD police, Round Rock police, and the Williamson County sheriff) about the persistent illegal activities performed on district property (and on camera, no less) by the scofflaws Jeremy Story, Dustin Clark, April Brinson, and Michelle Evans (who, as of this morning, launched a political campaign for the Texas House, which will, no doubt, involve dragging RRISD through the mud in order to further her own twisted agenda).

In light of yesterday's actions (which would normally merit a ticket for the noise violations without a permit, plus the use of school property for a rally - no doubt without district approval, excepting perhaps the trustee with whom they very visibly coordinate their actions), might I propose the following policy for the board's approval?

"Parents or community members involved in litigation against the district are not permitted to be on district property for any reason during the duration of their litigation without express written permission from RRISD campus or district leadership.

Should an affected individual wish to attend an on-campus school function, the affected individual must apply to the building principal or RRISD police for a one-time waiver, which may be granted at the discretion of the building principal or RRISD police. Each event that an affected individual wishes to attend requires a separate waiver approved by the building principal or RRISD police.

Should an affected individual wish to attend a board meeting, they must do so virtually via the provided livestream (per Texas Open Meetings Act requirements).

Should an affected individual wish to comment in the public commentary section of a board meeting, they may only do so via Zoom, conference call, or other virtual means.

Parent-teacher conferences for parents affected by this policy will be performed via teleconference.

Should an affected individual be required to be on campus for a matter regarding litigation, they must inform the building principal, administrative staff, or RRISD police at least 72 hours ahead of time in writing (either physically or electronically).

Penalties for individuals who violate this policy include, but are not limited to:

Criminal charges filed with the relevant authorities

Permanent bans from district property"

Considering that they willingly break TEC 37.23, 37.107, Round Rock noise / protest ordinances (14-212, 14-213, 14,215, and more), as well as TPC 38.13 (as Jeremy Story and Dustin Clark well know), it would be remiss not to suggest that the district implement something similar to the above in order to preserve both an orderly, threat-free environment for board meetings as well as to ensure the safety of commentators, attendees (multiple community members have come to me with stories about how they have been threatened and intimidated at board meetings by Ricci Nelson, Dustin Clark, and other members of both current and pending litigation against the district), students, and staff (I personally have seen messages from RRISD staff sent to employees stating that they should not be near the administration building during times when these individuals are present due to constant threats, intimidation, and harassment).

I do hope that the district will take the above suggestions to heart and consider implementing a solution that aids in the safety and well-being of community members who have legitimate interests to advance the outcomes of RRISD students, faculty, and staff instead of bowing to radical extremists at the beck and call of scofflaws and their mistresses.

As to my bona fides, since several trustees will (no doubt) question them, I'm an Austin resident zoned for Round Rock ISD since 2014 (and living in Round Rock and Austin since 2008). I'm married to an RRISD employee who has been directly impacted by the decisions the board has made (most grievously by the [REDACTED] lack of enforcement / penalties), and I'm friends with quite a few RRISD employees. I should also mention - though I have no doubt you've noticed already - my e-mail address; all I have to say about that is "whoopsie-doodle."

Wishing the five reasonable and sane board members all the best (and saying "bless your heart" to the other two), I remain,

The Lizard King

Chief Yarbrough, I did not ask whether Xiao publicly posting confidential information about a pending investigation interfered with the investigation.

I asked:

As proven in this text thread, on Friday, Dec 3 at 5:10 pm, Dr Azaiez decided to share private information about a criminal investigation to parties unrelated to the matter including Jun Xiao, Cory Vessa, Amber Feller, Amy Weir and Tiffanie Harrison. I know this is highly problematic and unacceptable. We need to know if this was legal.

We know that once this was shared with him, Jun Xiao took to his Facebook page and publicly attached my name to the contents of an open law enforcement investigation and harassed me. He also shared a website address he knows is impersonating me, Mary cited that statute above. As a board of trustees, we have a multi-step sanction process in our operating procedures to address this. But we also need to know if Xiao sharing this publicly was legal.

The part that is underlined are my questions I still have not received answers to. It's been four days and I still do not have answers. Should I go to the city of Round Rock police for answers?

As stated in this email thread on Friday, I have been concerned for my safety and the safety of my family since Friday and I want accountability for all parties from the RRISD PD.

I have not heard a word from Dr Azaiez or Pres Weir about the harm this has brought to me. Your silence is deafening.

Mr Faltys,

Please advise on if there is something I was supposed to do differently when Xiao did this to me on Friday. I am always open to feedback.

I think the assertion is that the information Xiao posted on Facebook is "confidential" because as you say there is an open criminal investigation. Xiao is a public servant and he released Trustee Weston's name related to a criminal investigation. The Code of Criminal Procedure referenced below seems to say that her name is confidential? Can you point me to the policy on how criminal investigations are handled in RRISD; specifically information?

Dr. Azaiez,

Hopefully you understand that this concern goes beyond this instance. What are other Trustees, parents, staff and students to think if they bring criminal issues to the RRISD PD? Is this the level of confidentiality that is expected, that the issue along with their name be posted all over Social Media? Do you think this put Trustee Weston in danger? Do you think there may need to be policy around how this type of situation is handled?

I am also still awaiting an answer from Chief Yarbrough about whether Dr Azaiez sharing the contents of an open investigation with parties unrelated to the investigation is legally problematic. I don't recall the board ever being briefed on other open investigations being conducted by the RRISD police. To the contrary. When I inquired about another open investigation (the arrests of 2 fathers who live in RRISD for alleged criminal behavior in our board meetings), both you and Chief Yarbrough asserted to me in writing via e-mail that I was not entitled to that information and I did not receive it. Which is it...are board members provided with information in open investigations or not? We can't have it both ways or have a double standard depending on which trustee asks for or receives it.

I am also awaiting word from Chief Yarbrough about whether Jun publicly sharing the contents of an open criminal investigation on social media is legally problematic as well.

Online Impersonation is classified in the Texas Penal Code under Title 7 “Offenses Against Property”, Chapter 33 “Computer Crimes”. The “Computer Crimes” in this category are not violent in nature, but instead have to do with deception, threats, or even fraud.

Texas Penal Code - PENAL § 33.07. Online Impersonation b) A person commits an offense if the person sends an electronic mail, instant message, text message, or similar communication that references a name, domain address, phone number, or other item of identifying information belonging to any person:

Dr. Azaiez,

This person claims to be a spouse of a district employee. While I don't know all the policies for employees, this type of behavior especially if criminal, from a spouse of an employee against a trustee is highly concerning. I wanted to bring it to your attention so you could address it also.

Best Regards,

Mary Bone

Subject: Thank you for contacting RRISD Board of Trustees. Suggestions re: persistent scofflaws / intimidation / harassment

To: Board_of_Trustees@roundrockisd.org <Board_of_Trustees@roundrockisd.org>

Good evening!

I'm sure that you've spoken to counsel (as well as RRISD police, Round Rock police, and the Williamson County sheriff) about the persistent illegal activities performed on district property (and on camera, no less) by the scofflaws Jeremy Story, Dustin Clark, April Brinson, and Michelle Evans (who, as of this morning, launched a political campaign for the Texas House, which will, no doubt, involve dragging RRISD through the mud in order to further her own twisted agenda).

In light of yesterday's actions (which would normally merit a ticket for the noise violations without a permit, plus the use of school property for a rally - no doubt without district approval, excepting perhaps the trustee with whom they very visibly coordinate their actions), might I propose the following policy for the board's approval?

"Parents or community members involved in litigation against the district are not permitted to be on district property for any reason during the duration of their litigation without express written permission from RRISD campus or district leadership.

Should an affected individual wish to attend an on-campus school function, the affected individual must apply to the building principal or RRISD police for a one-time waiver, which may be granted at the discretion of the building principal or RRISD police. Each event that an affected individual wishes to attend requires a separate waiver approved by the building principal or RRISD police.

Should an affected individual wish to attend a board meeting, they must do so virtually via the provided livestream (per Texas Open Meetings Act requirements).

Should an affected individual wish to comment in the public commentary section of a board meeting, they may only do so via Zoom, conference call, or other virtual means.

Parent-teacher conferences for parents affected by this policy will be performed via teleconference.

Should an affected individual be required to be on campus for a matter regarding litigation, they must inform the building principal, administrative staff, or RRISD police at least 72 hours ahead of time in writing (either physically or electronically).

Penalties for individuals who violate this policy include, but are not limited to:

Criminal charges filed with the relevant authorities

Permanent bans from district property"

Considering that they willingly break TEC 37.23, 37.107, Round Rock noise / protest ordinances (14-212, 14-213, 14,215, and more), as well as TPC 38.13 (as Jeremy Story and Dustin Clark well know), it would be remiss not to suggest that the district implement something similar to the above in order to preserve both an orderly, threat-free environment for board meetings as well as to ensure the safety of commentators, attendees (multiple community members have come to me with stories about how they have been threatened and intimidated at board meetings by Ricci Nelson, Dustin Clark, and other members of both current and pending litigation against the district), students, and staff (I personally have seen messages from RRISD staff sent to employees stating that they should not be near the administration building during times when these individuals are present due to constant threats, intimidation, and harassment).

I do hope that the district will take the above suggestions to heart and consider implementing a solution that aids in the safety and well-being of community members who have legitimate interests to advance the outcomes of RRISD students, faculty, and staff instead of bowing to radical extremists at the beck and call of scofflaws and their mistresses.

As to my bona fides, since several trustees will (no doubt) question them, I'm an Austin resident zoned for Round Rock ISD since 2014 (and living in Round Rock and Austin since 2008). I'm married to an RRISD employee who has been directly impacted by the decisions the board has made (most grievously by the [REDACTED] lack of enforcement / penalties), and I'm friends with quite a few RRISD employees. I should also mention - though I have no doubt you've noticed already - my e-mail address; all I have to say about that is "whoopsie-doodle."

Wishing the five reasonable and sane board members all the best (and saying "bless your heart" to the other two), I remain,

The Lizard King
